

The World's City Circulation EXCEEDS that of any other American newspaper by at least a million a month; 93,253 paid advertisements last month, or at the rate of Over a Million Advertisements a Year.

PRICE ONE CENT.

"Circulation Books Open to All."

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1901.

"Circulation Books Open to All."

The World's supremacy in City Circulation, achieved in 1885, steadily maintained during sixteen years. Result: col. last month's advertising, 2,312 made The World's Best September.

PRICE ONE CENT.

VANDERBILT LATE AT PHILADELPHIA; HOPES TO MAKE UP TIME ON WAY HOME

HEAVY GAMBLING ON THE OCEANIC.

Passengers Who Say They Were Swindled Decline to File Formal Complaint.

Several passengers on the steamship Oceanic, which arrived to-day, were very angry because, as they alleged, they had been swindled out of considerable money by gamblers. The complaints to Capt. Cameron, the purser became so frequent that when the vessel reached Quarantine Detective Mallon, of the White Star line, was telegraphed for. He boarded the vessel when she docked, but so far as could be learned, made no arrests. The passengers who were loud in their denunciation of certain passengers refused to make specific complaints.

According to reports the trouble was started in the auction of the pools on the daily run of the ship. It is said that the pools for three successive days—the 5th, 6th and 7th days of October—were won by a passenger named Henry Holland, and that these aggregates $1500. A peculiar feature of the three days' runs is that on the 5th of October the run was 488 knots; the same number of knots was knocked off on the following day, while on the 7th of October the ship went 386 knots. It is also asserted that before the pool was auctioned off one day it was discovered that some one had placed in the pool a counterfeit ten pound Bank of England note, and that Holland, when he learned of it, promised to make it good. By a turn of luck, however, Holland won the pool. The auctioneer was known as John W. Mann, but his real name is said to have been Manning.

A passenger named H. F. Morse is said to have lost £72 in one pool. He became very indignant. On the next to the last day of the voyage a passenger who described himself as A. C. Burnley, an Englishman, informed Capt. Cameron that he had been playing cards with three other passengers and that he had lost £20 cash and "10 U. S." for £20. The captain stopped the game at once, but as Burnley refused to claim he had been swindled, no arrests were made.

Later Burnley claims to have gotten into conversation with a passenger named E. T. Roberts and that they compared notes. Roberts alleged that he had played cards with the party in the Adelphi Hotel in Liverpool, and that he had in his possession a check for $95, signed by a man named Pillsbury and drawn on the Northwest Bank of Minneapolis. Pillsbury claimed he is a relative of the Pillsbury of four fame. Detective Mallon and Central Office Detective Leeson went to work on the case and had a talk with Burnley. They were, however, unable to find Pillsbury or those associated with him. Among the other passengers on the steamer was Elliot Danforth, the Democratic politician, who is hurrying to Norwich, this State, to attend the Chicago County Democratic Convention, which has been postponed until to-morrow so that he can be present.

BISHOPS ADOPT MARRIAGE CANON.

Episcopal Church Law Against Divorced Persons Is Now Rigid.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—The House of Bishops has adopted the canon on marriage and divorce in its entirety, as reported by the joint committee. The vote was 37 to 23.

The bishops also agreed on Boston as the next place of meeting of the convention three years hence.

The final clause, over which there was much debate, reads:

"No minister shall solemnize a marriage between two persons unless he is, by inquiry, satisfied that neither person is the husband or wife of any other person living, or has been the husband or wife of any other person living, unless the former marriage was annulled by a decree of some civil court of competent jurisdiction for cause existing before such former marriage."

HOPE FOR CONNELL.

The family of Capt. Connell, of the Ninth Infantry, who was killed at Balangian, in the Philippines, were astonished when shown the official list, as published in the morning papers, of the men slain in the massacre. This list, which was given out by the War Department, does not contain the name of Capt. Connell, nor the surgeon and lieutenant whom Capt. Bookmiller reported as killed and the bodies found. Mr. Connell, the father of the captain, lives at No. 11 South William street. When shown the list he could find no words to express his astonishment at the failure to mention his son's name. His only conclusion was that a mistake had been made and his son was alive.

Beyond the first announcement from the War Office, short and to the point, that Capt. Connell had been killed and the body horribly mutilated in Samar, the father has had no word from the Government.

The first news of the supposed finding of the body of the captain was conveyed to the family by a reporter for the Evening World.

At that time Mr. Connell said he was expecting hourly some word to confirm the Department's first notice. But none has come to the family.

All hope had been given up and the mother, delicate of health, had accepted as a positive fact the bulletin of the War Department.

But when they read the list cabled by Gen. Chaffee, and sanctioned officially as correct, and failed to find mention of their son, they took new courage.

SEVEN HURT IN ACCIDENT.

A north bound Broadway car crashed into an east bound cross-town car at Fulton street and Broadway to-day, injuring seven persons and creating a panic at that point. Both cars were filled with passengers. The Fulton street car was wrecked completely, being hit squarely in the middle. The powerful impact of the heavy electric car upset the lighter one and it toppled over on its side.

The following persons were injured: Albert Carr, sixty-three years old, of No. 39 Nassau street; contusions of head. Joseph Schiffer, of No. 43 Mercer street; injuries to head, back and arm. Joseph Plant, of Stockton, Mass.; head and eyes injured. Thomas Gerlitz, of Philadelphia; left hand and head injured. C. Smith, of No. 140 Washington street, Brooklyn; suffering from shock, &c. Harry Minden, of No. 1044 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn; suffering from shock. Miss E. M. Black, of No. 50 Waverly place; head and left shoulder injured.

The accident occurred about 10 o'clock when Broadway and Fulton street were crowded with pedestrians. The Fulton street car, on which were about a dozen passengers, had stopped on the west side of Broadway to let a passenger alight. Thinking he had the right of way, the driver, Thomas Irving, of No. 177 West Twenty-third street, went ahead, after giving the signal.

On Broadway was standing car No. 12, and on Fulton street was crossing Broadway car No. 1.

On Broadway was standing car No. 12, and on Fulton street was crossing Broadway car No. 1.

On Broadway was standing car No. 12, and on Fulton street was crossing Broadway car No. 1.

MOLINEUX TRIAL SURE.

Authentic Report that Court's Action Favors Condemned Man.

DECISION DUE FRIDAY. Error in Admission of Handwriting Testimony Assigned as One Reason.

From an authentic source it was learned to-day that Roland B. Molineux will positively be granted a new trial. The decision giving the accused murderer of Kate J. Adams another chance for his life will be handed down in the Tombs on Friday afternoon by the Court of Appeals.

The prevailing opinion was written by Judge Warner. Another of the Judges wrote the dissenting opinion. It has not been learned how the Court is divided on the question of granting the application, but it is said that probably two of the Judges will appear in the opposition.

Judge Warner's opinion granting the new trial is now ready. It is an exhaustive review of the case, and contains 35,000 words. The dissenting opinion is also an able document, but not so lengthy. As soon as the decision is filed, copies will be forwarded to this city as quickly as possible, and Molineux may be back in the Tombs to await his second trial early next week.

The innocence of the man will not be touched upon in the favorable opinion. The new trial, it is learned, is granted purely upon technical grounds.

It is said to be the opinion of the majority of the court that it was an error to admit testimony touching upon the death of H. C. Barnett; that errors were committed in the admission of the evidence of the handwriting experts; and that the attitude of the presiding judge was prejudicial at times to the interests of the defendant.

These are said to be the main points upon which Judge Warner's opinion is based. The majority of his associates find that Molineux is entitled to his plea for a new trial.

Other and more material points, which will be of vast importance in a second trial, it is said to have been decided against him.

Instead of having a good home, Ira was having the hardest kind of a time. But read Ira's own story:

"I never used to think much of my father because I couldn't remember him at all, but when I used to cry after being ill-treated and whipped Mrs. Proff would pet me and sympathize with me. But one day I learned he was living in Jersey City."

"Then I decided to be free. Mrs. Proff helped me all she could, and at night I escaped from the house with her knowledge, after she had given me the little money she could spare and plenty to eat."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."

"I have only one wish," said the father. "I'd like to meet the man who inflicted those bruises."

"The boy will be educated now. He is well developed, has blue eyes, light hair and is very shy. He rarely met strangers."

"I was alone in the wilds of Monmouth County, and couldn't even tell in what direction Jersey City was."

"There I got my bearings. I worked several days for a farmer and earned 75 cents. That paid part of the way to Jersey City. I did some more walking and finally reached the Greenville section of Jersey City on Monday. I met Police Sergt. Booth, of the Fifth Precinct station, and, as luck would have it, he located my father at once and sent for him."

"Trouble Ended Now."

"When papa met me face to face he kissed me and I knew my long trouble was over."

"Calie Bennett, the boy's father, is thirty-eight years old, and lives in an old barn on Bergen avenue, Jersey City. He says he would never have identified his child in a crowd. He is happy beyond measure over the reunion."

"The boy showed a bruise on his right leg where he had been clubbed."